HAND WORN SEARCHING ENHANCEMENT TOOL RECOGNIZED AS LEADING TECHNOLOGY IN CORRECTIONS AND LAW ENFORCEMENT INDUSTRY

GEORGETOWN, Mass., Aug. 21, 2003 -- Paradigm Tactical Products Inc. (www.Frisker.com), an international corrections, law enforcement and military supplier of their unique FriskerPRO® Hand Worn Metal detector, recently attained the "Top Spot" among 84 corrections related technologies and services (according to the August 2003 issue of Popular Science Magazine, page 79). The recognition was made at the US DOJ sponsored mock prison riot in Moundsville WV, notes James F. Marr, a vice president of Paradigm.

The FriskerPRO® is a small, covert and extremely effective searching enhancement and officer safety /survival tool which is quickly setting a new and much higher standard in officer safety and survival. Paradigms' marching orders are for all agencies and their training units around the world to both instruct their personnel in the use of the device as well as deploy the FriskerPRO® in an attempt to make a very dangerous job, just a little safer. "If you have not considered attaining this safety level or are not at the 'FriskerPRO® STANDARD' level yet, you and your agency are at a severe safety disadvantage," said Marr.

Marr, a retired law enforcement officer, states the FriskerPRO® is very simple to use and operate, and has had a tremendous impact for the agencies, both domestic and international, which are deploying them in their crime fighting measures as well as in their homeland security and anti-terrorism efforts. Citing security reasons, Marr refuses to discuss Paradigms' customers, other than to say, "They are exactly where they need to be, with many more coming!"

According to Marr, several agencies have now adopted the device as issued equipment for each one of their personnel, citing the inherent advantage the device gives their personnel doing a very dangerous job. "The decision makers realize this is a great tool to provide for their employees and is a viable risk management solution effort to help reduce injuries and even deaths in the line of duty."

The FriskerPRO® is a unique device capable of detecting a single staple or a handcuff key inside a mouth against the cheek wall among other incredible detections. This was never before possible because the technology was unavailable or was tactically unsound for the situation, says Marr.

The FriskerPRO® also allows the user to defend him/herself without any delay, if the need arises, up to and including using deadly force. This would be impossible with any of the other hand held detectors, and because the FriskerPRO® is hand worn, the two types of technologies cannot be fairly compared other than to say they both detect metal.

Marr points out, "You'll never see a wand style metal detector in a cop's hand in a tactical situation; but look closer, you may just see a FriskerPRO®!" (Source: <http://www.ereleases.com/pr/2003-08-21b.html>)
